Common-law wives turn husbands in

Two Vancouver men reported for child pornography in unrelated incidents ◐ Images found on personal computers ◐ Police say it's not uncommon for family members to call authorities

SARAH N. FITZGERALD
VANCOUVER@METRONEWS.CA

Two Vancouver women called police after finding what looked like child pornography on the computers of their common-law and former common-law husbands, police said yesterday.

Thirty-year-old Cedric David Jaune was arrested and charged with possession of child porn after his common-law wife found what she believed to be child pornography on a computer in their home.

Jaune, who was convicted of having child porn in 2005, has a one-year-old son. The Ministry of Children and Family Development has been contacted, according to Const. Lindsey Houghton.

In a separate case, the former common-law wife of an unnamed 26-year-old Vancouver man called police after finding child pornography images on the laptop of her former spouse for the second time in a month.

Police say charges are pending and the man's name has not been released.

Houghton said it's not unusual for spouses to turn in their partners.

"It's quite common, actually. Fortunately, people see these types of images, are disturbed themselves and feel the need to call (the police), which is what we want."

More child porn arrests

- A 21-year-old woman from the Northern B.C. community of Glen Vowell was arrested after officers found child pornography on her computer, RCMP announced yesterday morning.
- A 27-year-old Penticton man is also being investigated for child porn after officers seized his computer equipment.
- Vice investigators alleged that both suspects seemed to be sharing the images with others but not producing them.

Teen facing child-porn charges

A 16-year-old Maple Ridge boy has been charged with possessing and distributing child pornography for allegedly taking pictures of the rape of a teenager, then posting the images online.

The youth — who cannot be named because of his age — made his first court appearance in Port Coquitlam Provincial Court yesterday, said RCMP Sgt. Peter Thiessen.

A second teen was also arrested and may be charged with sexual assault.

Thiessen said a code of silence may be stopping witnesses from telling police what happened the night the victim was allegedly drugged and raped outside a rave in Pitt Meadows.

"It's a challenging investigation, to say the least," Thiessen said, adding only two of the suspected dozen witnesses have come forward, forcing officers to sort through rumours and second-hand information.

"We need first-hand information from that one group."

The victim's family said the spread of the pictures online repeatedly victimized the girl, who has since returned to school.

Money risk scares off Village bidders

19 social housing operators won't bid to manage social housing at Vancouver's Olympic Village

"These are very desirable residences for people in the affordable housing bracket. We're confident that we can fill them. If B.C. Housing doesn't want to partner with us in that, we'll find other partners."

JEFF HODSON/METRO VANCOUVER FILE

▶ The Olympic Village under construction.

The director of the Portland Hotel Society is not surprised by news that only three organizations put forward bids to manage 252 units of social housing at Vancouver's $1-billion Olympic Village.

PHS director Mark Townsend, whose non-profit housing organization was one of three bidders rejected by the province to run the mixed-market and social-housing units, said something is amiss if so many organizations were put off by the request for proposals.

"The main reason, outside of short timeline and amount of work to put in the bid, was that the finances are so tight," Townsend said. "There's a lot of risk involved."

The province rejected two of the bids for lack of experience and a third organization because it had applied to create a co-op, according to a news report.

Coun. Geoff Meggs said it was frustrating to hear the province had rejected the proposals before the ink was even dry.

"We don't understand what is so difficult," Meggs said.

"We've built and paid for a very nice complex that would take about 120 families off the (B.C. Housing) waiting list."

Woman sentenced to psych hospital

A Grand Forks woman who stabbed her 12-year-old autistic neighbour to death has been sentenced to spend one year in a psychiatric hospital after receiving a psychological assessment. Kimerly Noyes, 42, will likely be allowed to leave Riverview on escorted passes, although her doctor says she is at risk of becoming violent.

In July, she was found not criminally responsible for the 2009 murder of John Fulton, saying she thought he was the son of the devil.

Dismisss sperm case: B.C.

Woman argues it's vital to know father's medical history

The British Columbia government is asking a judge to throw out a landmark legal challenge seeking to end the anonymity of sperm donors.

Olivia Pratten, 28, wants the B.C. Supreme Court to order the province to create a system that ensures donor records are kept indefinitely and to prevent existing records from being destroyed.

She also wants children conceived through donation to have the ability to obtain information about a donor's identity and medical history — effectively making it impossible for them to remain anonymous. Pratten launched the lawsuit after fighting for more than a decade to obtain records about her conception, arguing such information is vital to her own health and to ease the psychological stress of not knowing who her biological father is.

"This case really is about recognition — it's about recognizing that donor conception does matter, that people who want to know their biological information do matter."
OLIVIA PRATTEN

The doctor who performed the procedure insists he destroyed the documents in the 1990s because physicians aren't required to keep patient records for more than six years. B.C. government lawyer Leah Greathead told court that because the records surrounding Pratten's case no longer exist, there would be no point for the judge to consider whether to order them returned. # Police seek train masher

Surrey police are asking for help finding a man believed to be have assaulted two women outside the King George SkyTrain station.

The first victim, an 18-year-old girl, was grabbed from behind and pushed against a wall while walking along the 9900 block of 138 Street Monday night, said RCMP Sgt. Peter Thiessen.

She managed to fight off the man, who ran toward the SkyTrain station.

"She was not injured and nothing was taken from her," Thiessen said.

A short time later, south of King George station, a 57-year-old woman was attacked in a similar manner and sexually assaulted.

"She was successful in fending off the attacker and suffered minor injuries," said Thiessen.

RCMP say there's no reason to believe the incidents are connected to the assault and subsequent death of a teenager in a Delta park last weekend.

Cops who tied girl to door reprimanded

15-year-old arrested for public drunkenness Video shows teen wrestled to the floor by two officers

A retired British Columbia judge has ruled that two Victoria police officers abused their authority when they left a teenaged girl tethered for four hours to the door of a jail cell five years ago.

Allan Filmer, who headed a public hearing into the incident, has ordered written reprimands be given to constables Ryan O'Neil and Brian Asmussen.

Kinloch was awarded $60,000 after a civil trial, though Victoria police and the City of Victoria appealed, eventually leading to an out-of-court settlement.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Background

Willow Kinloch was arrested in 2005 for being drunk in public and placed in a padded cell.

- Police claim she became verbally abusive and combative.
- Video from Kinloch's cell shows two officers tied her up and then tethered her to the door of the padded cell.
- The public hearing was ordered by the Office of the B.C. Police Complaint Commissioner after a Victoria Police Department investigation and separate review found the allegations against the two officers were unsubstantiated.

Some highway access restored to Bella Coola ◗ Evacuation order lifted

The B.C. government says progress is being made in restoring access to the central coast town of Bella Coola after torrential rains washed out the only road link to the community and flooded the airport.

Transportation Minister Shirley Bond says work is under way to clear the slides that have blocked Highway 20 and the route is now passable east of Anahim Lake.

Evacuation orders were rescinded Tuesday, but some people still haven't been able to return home because of damage caused by the flooding.

It could take weeks for the water to recede, according to government officials. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Illnesses delay B.C. Rail trial

There's yet another delay in the corruption trial of three former B.C. government employees.

Both a juror and one of the accused have been sick, stopping the trial for five days, and now scheduling problems have set the trial back until Oct. 12.

When the trial started in May, jurors were told the case would last about six weeks. The jury has been sitting off and on since May, and has heard from just two witnesses. THE CANADIAN PRESS

EUROPE'S ANGER

Cuts spark a wave of strikes

Anti-austerity protests erupted across Europe yesterday.

Greek doctors and railway employees walked off the job.

Spanish workers shut down trains and buses.

One man even blocked the Irish parliament with a cement truck to decry that country's bank bailouts.

Tens of thousands of demonstrators marched through the streets of Brussels toward European Union buildings in bright red, green and blue labour union jackets, aiming to reinforce the impact of Spain's first countrywide strike in eight years.

Strikes or protests also took place in Portugal, Slovenia and Lithuania — all aimed at the tax-hiking, pension-cutting austerity plans governments have implemented.

"It is a bizarre time for the European Commission to be proposing a regime of punishment," said European union leader John Monks. "How is that going to make the situation better? It's going to make it worse."

20 hours of surgery beat mom's cancer

Janis Ollson's cancer called for radical treatment: Surgeons cut her skeletal structure in half, removed a leg and part of her pelvis, and put her back together again.

Then she had to learn to get around with a wheelchair, crutches and prosthetics.

Her world north of Winnipeg seemed perfect three years ago. At 28, she had a young daughter and was pregnant with a son.

But then doctors discovered a large cancerous tumour on her pelvic bone.

Surgery would involve removing the left half of Ollson's pelvis, her left leg and part of her backbone.

But putting her back together called for an experimental procedure called a "pogo stick" rebuild.

With Ollson's pelvis completely severed from her spinal cord, part of the bone from her amputated leg would be reshaped and used to fuse her remaining leg to her upper body.

In all, Ollson underwent more than 20 hours of surgery in the United States.

She believes she has inspired a lot of people: "I'm very content with the spot I am in in my life."

World will follow Alberta's lead: Cameron

Cameron's visit sheds a worldwide light on Alberta's oilsands Director calls oilsands a gift and a curse

ANDREAS MORSE/METRO EDMONTON

James Cameron

Fresh off a fact-finding mission at Alberta's oilsands, Canadian filmmaker James Cameron met with politicians and the media in Edmonton yesterday to get a balanced look at the oilsands and their effect on the environment.

"What we need is a constructive solution here," he said.

"It will be a curse if it's not managed properly. It can also be a great gift to Canada and to Alberta if it is managed properly."

Cameron sat down with Alberta Premier Ed Stelmach for a candid but private discussion yesterday.

Cameron said he and the premier agreed to disagree on a few points, but Stelmach said it was important that he meet with the Hollywood director.

"The media's interest in Mr. Cameron's visit has allowed our government and industry to tell our story," he said. "Albertans know we share a responsibility to protect our planet. We're doing our part to move the world towards a clean energy future."

Now that the Avatar creator has had a first-hand look at Alberta's "black eye," he said the public has a responsibility to create boundaries for oil exploration.

"The world is looking at what you here in Alberta do," he said.

"The decisions that are made here are really going to shape the energy policies of the future."

RUNNING CAN OFFER NEW INSPIRATION

He says ...

JOHN MAZEROLLE

I'm training to run a half-marathon in October and it's changed my life. The magazines tell me so in their colour-filled, glossy pages.

My heart rate is improved. My self-esteem and confidence are at a new high. Coffee tastes better, people smile at me on the street, and I'm no longer racist. My parallel parking has improved, I can use a urinal even with other people around, and I've just about cured cancer.

And happy?! People in running mags are so happy, just like me. They always have great teeth they show off as they run, keeping them white and clean through constant wind exposure.

It's because these people have taken control of their lives.

That's what the mags say. Taking control is always stated as an intrinsic positive, even though deciding to eat Big Macs every day or committing to a daily regime of smack would qualify as taking control, too.

As you have perhaps surmised, I'm a little less gung-ho than your average running mag model, the sort who treat running as a full-fledged religion complete with conversion and redemption. Join us.

I enjoy running, but I'm not that far gone, partially because I'm not very good. I have never smiled when running — the look on my face ranges from passing a gallstone to passing out to passing on.

"I enjoy running, but I'm not that far gone, partially because I'm not very good. I have never smiled when running ..."

Running is supposed to offer a sort of endorphin-fuelled pain relief, but I mostly find that my lazy pains have shifted into new locations for active-people pain, kind of like a cartoon character who throws a hot potato between his left hand and his right hand.

I'm also about as light on my feet as those AT-AT walkers from The Empire Strikes Back. If you were just listening to my footfalls you'd swear I was wearing flippers.

No, I take different lessons from running than, "Things are super now!"

Here's my inspirational running story: I run. I don't really go anywhere, I end up back where I started, but I'm happy to have gone. Pointless, yes, but better than just sitting there, right?

If I can't find the symbolism in that my Grade 10 English teacher would be very upset with me.

It's better for me to do almost anything than lie stagnant on my couch. Unless The Empire Strikes Back is on. That's different. It changed my life.

Room service in space

Worth mentioning

The view is out of this world

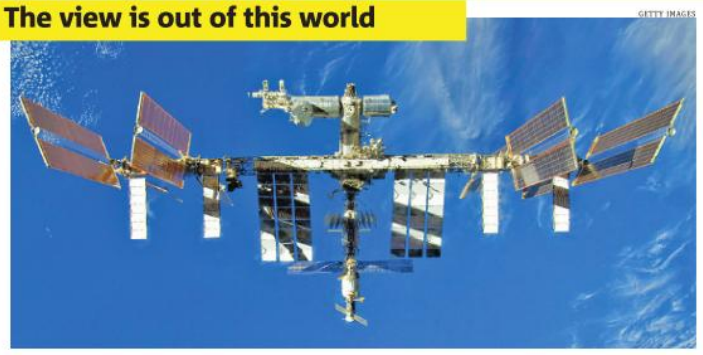
GETTY IMAGES



A Russian firm yesterday announced an ambitious bid to fill the vacuum in the space tourism market by stationing an orbiting hotel in the cosmos.

The Moscow-based Orbital Technologies has sky-high hopes that its planned Commercial Space Station can serve as a tourism hub for well-heeled travellers and offer overspill accommodation for the International Space Station and workspace for science projects.

But it's unlikely to come anytime soon — the company wants to launch a seven-room station by 2016, but may increase or decrease that capacity based on customer demand.

Sergey Kostenko, Orbital Technologies' chief executive, told The Associated Press the planned station would be "a comfortable hotel in orbit, designed specifically for tourists."

Until now, space tourists — a handful of megarich CEOs and philanthropists — have had to suffer the indignity of hitching a ride with astronauts and cosmonauts to the International Space Station and float around the space laboratory trying not to break anything.

Now, or at least soon, they will have a place to gawk at the view in private.

Metro Minute with Win/Win at VIFF

VIFF.ORG

▶ Oscar Van Rompay as Ivan in Win/Win.

How about going Dutch this evening by watching Win/Win on opening night of the Vancouver International Film Festival?

The 90-minute satirical comedy written and directed by Dutch filmmaker Jaap van Heusden chronicles Ivan, an underling at a large financial firm who makes it to the big time, but rather enjoyed his time as a nobody. The film pokes holes in the inflated notions of what it is to be the big cheese, as well as telling a tale of innocence lost. The film begins at 8:30 p.m. at Empire Granville 7 Cinemas at 855 Granville St. Tickets cost $12. For a VIFF schedule, see viff.org/festival/films-schedule.

So what if it's not an iPhone?

- Official defends new BlackBerry
- Device's tech specs lacking: Critics

There was a lot of advance hype for the BlackBerry Torch before its specs were first released in August.

Then there was disappointment.

Yes, Research In Motion seemed to have combined the best of both worlds for smartphone users, by marrying a cool touchscreen interface with the user-friendly QWERTY keyboard and security infrastructure the Canadian company is known for.

But tech geeks lamented that the internal gadgetry inside the Torch didn't surpass — or even match — the specs of some of the competitors already on the market, namely the iPhone 4.

The Torch is now being released in Canada starting today, about seven weeks after its U.S. launch, and BlackBerry's director of marketing admits it doesn't out-tech the competition. But the Waterloo, Ont.-based company doesn't see that as a problem,

RIM is crafting its marketing campaign to suggest the Torch will be the phone of choice for cool tastemakers.

AUTO INDUSTRY

Vehicle sales bounce back

Canadian purchases of new and used vehicles are on track to set a record this year, indicating a sharp rebound from the dismal sales of 2009, according to the latest global auto report by Scotia Economics.

The bank said yesterday it expected overall vehicle sales in Canada this year to edge out the current record, set three years ago, before the recession hit the industry hard.

If the rebound continues, it could drive car and light truck sales to a record 4.4 million units — 2.9 million used vehicles and 1.57 million new models.

That's up from a previous record peak of 4.3 million in 2007.

▶ All for one: Neil Young and Daniel Lanois teamed up to make Young's new solo album, Le Noise

Neil Young's new album is personal

Produced by Daniel Lanois, Le Noise is full of interesting sounds and experiments

Some of your louder rock 'n' roll bands can make the Ryman Auditorium floorboards rattle a little. Few, though, have shaken the pews like Neil Young with just his electric guitar.

Young has been known to make a racket with a distinctive guitar sound that has influenced two generations of musicians. The low rumble he sent through the foundation at the Ryman in June, employing the technology he used on his new Daniel Lanois-produced album, Le Noise, was something very different, however. In the audience, the air seemed to vibrate — as well as the listener's ribcage.

It was that sound that drew Young to Lanois, whose all-star collaboration list includes U2, Willie Nelson, Bob Dylan and Peter Gabriel.

What emerged from those recording sessions is new, even for the ever-restless Young. Le Noise is full of interesting sounds and experiments, on both acoustic and electric guitars.

In a sense, it's Young as he first emerged as a performer — alone with his guitar singing about things completely personal and wholly universal. But 45 years worth of technological advances make it a very different experience. Lanois' setup allows Young to inhabit all the spaces that a band would — high guitar notes, low bass notes, the rhythm, the melody — simultaneously.

"I think it's a — I don't know — a spiritual record in some kind of ways," Young said. "There's a lot to do with love on the record. Love is in almost every song, and so it had a spiritual layer to it. It's not trying to do anything. It's just trying to be itself."

Peaceful Valley Boulevard is cast in the mould of classics like Aurora Borealis and Cortez The Killer, showing how mistakes made centuries ago grow and magnify over time until God cried tears that were a "pounding rain" and "a child was born and wondered why."

And then there's the brittle and beautiful Love and War, on which Young lays down this shocking statement: "When I sing about love and war, I don't really know what I'm saying."

Isn't that a profoundly confusing statement from the artist who gave us Ohio and Impeach the President?

"It's such a deep subject and there's really no one answer," he said. "There's nobody who really knows. It just seems to be a part of the human condition is to get in wars over and over again for as long as human beings have been around. So I have opinions but I'm not so sure that they're right." # TV is coming out

GLAAD report finds that 3.9 per cent of TV actors now appearing in gay, lesbian and bisexual roles

The number of gay and bisexual characters on scripted broadcast network TV has risen slightly this season to 23 out of a total of nearly 600 roles, according to the Gay & Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation.

The 15th annual Where We Are on TV report released Wednesday found that 3.9 per cent of actors appearing regularly on prime-time network drama and comedy series in the 2010-11 season will portray gay, lesbian or bisexual characters.

That's up from three per cent in the 2009-10 season. The increase in 2008-09 was 2.6 per cent.

Only six of the 23 gay and lesbian characters this season are non-white, GLAAD found.

Using information provided by ABC, CBS, Fox, NBC and CW, the group reviewed 84 scripted series announced to air this season.

The only original programming announced by the gay-focused cable networks here! and Logo is unscripted, alternative programming, so they were not part of this year's character count, GLAAD said.

Primetime pride

Brave bloodsuckers: The ever-popular HBO vampire drama True Blood comes out on top of GLAAD's report, featuring the most gay, lesbian and bisexual main characters (six) on a mainstream TV show.

While the number of broadcast drama series featuring regular or recurring gay characters is unchanged from last year, the number of comedy series has increased from eight to 11, including new comedies Running Wilde (Fox) and Hellcats (CW).

ABC led the networks in gay representation, with 7.2 per cent or 11 regular characters out of a total of 152, followed by Fox with five out of 100 (five per cent).

On mainstream cable channels, the number of regular characters rebounded to 35 after a two-year decline.

HBO features the greatest number of gay and bisexual characters, with 10 regular and recurring characters.

The group found that the HBO drama True Blood is the most inclusive series on television, featuring six characters.

Robes fit for a king

If it seems like Tudors star Jonathan Rhys Meyers is bigger than ever, it's because he is.

The Irish actor packs a bit more heft and dons facial hair and prosthetics to simulate the advancing age and expanding physique of King Henry VIII on the fourth and final season of the sprawling historical epic.

Co-star Tamzin Merchant joins the cast this season as the tyrant's fifth wife, Katherine Howard.

"They definitely did kind of make a gesture towards making him the bigger character from history that we all know," Merchant said of Meyers' appearance during a recent Toronto, promotional stop.

The Irish-Canadian co-production has weathered complaints that Meyers' slim build bears little resemblance to the image of the bearded and rotund king.

But as the sexy serial reached the end of Henry's reign, concessions were made to conclude with a look that more closely matched public perception of the king in his later years, says Merchant, noting that includes the adoption of a jaunty cap but still falls short of a full-on fat suit.

Vancouver actor Torrance Coombs (who plays the duplicitous courtier Thomas Culpepper) says the massive production was the largest he'd been a part of, noting the large-scale sets, award-winning costumes and crowds of extras went a long way toward helping him immerse himself in the period. The Tudors airs Wednesdays on CBC-TV.

The Oprah Winfrey Network will make its Canadian debut next year

[illegible] it's finalized a deal that will bring Oprah Winfrey's health and relationship channel north of the border following the U.S. premiere on Jan. 1, 2011.

Called OWN (Oprah Winfrey Network) the channel will largely target women age 25 to 54.

The lineup will include the evening talk show Oprah's Next Chapter, Behind the Scenes: The Oprah Show Final Season, and the reality show, Why Not With Shania Twain, which will chronicle the ups and downs of the Canadian country music star. Winfrey is set to wrap up her weekday syndicated talk show next year after its 25th season.

Lone Star gets axed

Fox network says that its prime-time soap Lone Star is being pulled off of the air after just two airings on television.

Replacing the little-watched new show is the psychological crime drama Lie To Me, which is set to commence its third season on the air next Monday at 9 p.m. EDT.

Although Fox didn't officially cancel Lone Star, its fate seemed to have been sealed after Monday's episode, the audience of which was even smaller than the 4.1 million viewers who had tuned in to the Lone Star's series premiere a week earlier.

Praised by critics, the show featured newcomer James Wolk as a charismatic Texas con man living a double life with two women.

With the dire news from Fox hitting the public on Tuesday, Lone Star became the very first casualty of this fall's television season, which is little more than a week old.

Top model mix-up

The winner of popular reality show Australia's Next Top Model gave a heartfelt acceptance speech at this season's live finale.

Unfortunately her speech came before the show's host realized she had announced the wrong name.

On Tuesday night host Sarah Murdoch named 19-year-old Kelsey Martinovich the winner of season six of the Fox Television reality show.

Minutes later, with her hand over her face, Murdoch made an awkward apology. The actual winner, as voted by television viewers, was 18-year-old Amanda Ware.

Murdoch claimed that the wrong name was fed to her in her earpiece.

The network announced on Wednesday that Martinovich will receive 20,000 Australian dollars as well as a trip to New York — which are also part of the Amanda Ware's prize. The rewards will serve as compensation for the blunder.

The real Big Love saga

Police in Utah city are launching a bigamy investigation of a plural family with a reality TV show

A Utah family with four wives had hoped its participation on a TLC reality TV show would shed light on polygamy.

But now that it is the target of a bigamy investigation by Utah police, one advocate worries that the probe will instil fear in other plural families about going public with their lives.

"If it really goes to a court situation, then our people are going to go right back into isolation," said Anne Wilde, co-founder of Principle Voices, a non-profit that seeks to educate the public about polygamous families.

Over the past 10 years, Utah's historically insular polygamist community has worked with state agencies to increase understanding of the unique aspects of polygamous culture, Wilde said. As a result, plural families are now less hesitant to seek help and services when needed, she said.

The Brown family's decision to do the reality TV show was sort an extension of that education work, said Wilde, who knows the family well.

Sister Wives, which premiered Sunday, chronicles the life of 41-year-old advertising salesman Kody Brown, his four wives, 13 children and three stepchildren. The Browns, of Lehi, have said they hoped that the peek into their lives would help broaden the public's understanding of plural families. Lehi police are investigating whether the family is violating bigamy laws on cable TV. Brown is only legally married to Meri but also calls three other women his spouses: Janelle, Christine and Robyn.

Up to five years

- Across Utah and parts of the western U.S., an estimated 38,000 self-described fundamentalist Mormons continue to believe and/or practice polygamy, believing it brings exaltation in heaven.
- Although it is rarely prosecuted, bigamy is a third-degree felony in Utah, punishable by a prison term of up to five years. Under the Utah law, a person can be found guilty of bigamy through cohabitation, not just legal marriage contracts.

A kitchen nightmare

A New Jersey chef who was featured on Kitchen Nightmares three years ago has jumped off a bridge to his death It's the second guest on a Ramsay show to commit suicide The other was a contestant on Hell's Kitchen

PVRR

A New Jersey chef who three years ago described "overwhelming" personal debt when he was featured on Gordon Ramsay's Kitchen Nightmares show jumped to his death from the George Washington Bridge into the Hudson River.

The body of 39-year-old Joseph Cerniglia, whose restaurant experienced a renewal since the show, was found floating in the river on Friday. The New York City medical examiner's office ruled it a suicide, agency spokeswoman Grace Burgess said.

Cerniglia owned Campania in Fair Lawn, N.J., which he bought in 2006. In 2007, the debt-ridden Italian restaurant was featured on Ramsay's show.

During the broadcast, Cerniglia estimated he owed purveyors about $80,000.

"I'm financially in trouble. The debt of the restaurant alone is overwhelming," he said. "My personal debt — wife, kids, mortgage — that's a lot of debt."

His wife added, "If this business fails, we will lose everything."

"Why did you become a chef-owner if you haven't a clue how to run a business?" Ramsay asks him on the show.

He criticizes the restaurant's large portions, the food quality and speed of service, and chastises Cerniglia for allowing such a childish atmosphere in the kitchen.

Jim Edwards, the culinary director at Chef Central in Paramus and a close friend of Cerniglia's for the last seven years, said he thought his friend benefited from being on Ramsay's show.

"I thought he fared well," Edwards said.

"I was never at the restaurant when it wasn't packed." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Turning up the noise

Neil Young
Album: Le Noise
Label: Reprise/Warner

It's about time Neil Young turned to an outside producer. The godfather of grunge's last few CDs have all sounded like they were made in his basement, which is probably pretty much close to the truth. One of Young's most endearing qualities has always been that Raggedy-Andy rawness. Still, things were getting out of hand. So, yeah, everyone was excited when uber-producer Daniel Lanois (U2, Bob Dylan, Peter Gabriel, etc.) invited Young to his L.A. mansion for some sessions. The two Canadian legends hit it off. Lanois presented Young with an acoustic guitar specially loaded with a plethora of effects. The venerable rocker took full sonic advantage, sitting down and spewing forth echo and feedback on eight new songs. The result is jolting — just Neil and his guitars with Master Dan creating a sound so thick you can step into it. There are times (It's an Angry World, Rumbling) when the atmospheric loops conger visions of Young's experimental Trans period. Some songs give us a peek into his life. On Hitchhiker, he even lays open a lifetime of drug exploits. On other tracks (Peaceful Valley Boulevard), the clarity of his guitar recall gentler Young moments. Don't expect any Harvest Moon here, though. There's an underlying darkness that true fans will love, but occasional travelers will shun.

This is an eclectic and ultimately tasty batch of 14 tracks.

Hammer brings A-game to The Social Network

High-calibre cast inspired eachother on set of new movie about Facebook

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Armie Hammer faced some interesting acting challenges for the Social Network. Playing both Cameron and Tyler Winklevoss, the identical twins who claimed Mark Zuckerberg stole the idea for Facebook from them, Hammer gets some of the best lines in the movie — and spends most of his scenes arguing with himself. Metro caught up with Hammer at the Harvard Club in New York .

▶ Armie Hammer plays identical twins Cameron and Tyler Winklevoss in the Social Network.

When you get a script by Aaron Sorkin directed by David Fincher, what goes through your head?
To think about the fact that you are working with Fincher and you are doing two parts, if you show up carrying that anxiety with you, you won't get the same performance. We really had to trust Fincher and let go of the fact that he was Fincher and just do whatever he asked.

The real Winklevoss twins were at the premiere. Did you meet them before you made the movie?
I met them afterward. I'm glad I didn't meet them before, because I feel like I would've been tempted to do almost like an imitation of these guys who I don't know. I know the characters in the script better than I know the real guys.

And what was their response to the film?
From what I could tell, it was positive. Honestly, I just think they're happy that their side of the story is being told, you know?

On Oprah, Mark Zuckerberg referred to the film as a work of fiction. Do you see it as a true story?
If I were Mark Zuckerberg, I would definitely try to play this off as fiction as well. I mean, I'm not surprised that's what he said. Do I see this as a work of nonfiction? Um... yes, but in the sense that truth is relative. So to each of the characters as it relates to them, they are telling the truth and this is their true story. But it's up to the audience to take these three perspectives and sort of figure out what they think.

▶ Ryan Reynold's new flick, Buried, opens in select theatres Friday.

Reynolds does the 'impossible'

The low-budget indie is a departure for Reynolds, who recently starred in The Proposal and X-Men Origins

When Ryan Reynolds was sent the script for the claustrophobic thriller Buried, his first instinct was to say no.

``Only because it (seemed) impossible,'' Reynolds said in an interview at the Toronto International Film Festival earlier this month.

``It was just this fantastic piece of writing and it was impossible to accomplish in a film — there's no way you could shoot it.''

The script consisted of a single character on screen for 90 minutes, with the action — if you could call it that — all taking place inside a wooden coffin. Bit by bit, pieces of a flawed hero's life are revealed as he uses a cellphone, lighter, pencil and flashlight to plot his escape.

The story centres on the plight of family man Paul Conroy.

He's a truck driver working on a U.S. government contract in Iraq and is abducted when his convoy comes under attack.

Reynolds only saw the movie's potential after talking to impassioned Spanish director Rodrigo Cortes.

``Rodrigo saw this technical challenge as something that he could ... not only overcome, he could invent moments and invent ways to shoot this film,'' said Reynolds.

The troubled starlet is now in a Southern California live-in facility, where she plans to stay until her next probation hearing on Oct. 22, according TMZ.

"The plan always was for her to go back into rehab and hopefully it will work for her this time around before her next court date," friend and photographer Tyler Shields tells Radar Online. "We all hope and pray that she can recover. I've always said that she is not a criminal, and that she needs rehab and not jail at this point in her life."

1 THE SEVENTIES AT ETRO, FENDI AND BLUMARINE

No matter which part of 1970s fashion you prefer, there's a boatload for everyone to choose from. It seems that Milan's designers have mined every nook and cranny of the time period: Fendi's romantic silhouettes, Etro's heavy use of totally seventies mustard, Blumarine's more flamboyant, over-the-top bell bottoms.

2 EYE-POPPING COLOURS (ESPECIALLY ORANGE) AT MAX MARA, EMPORIO ARMANI AND JIL SANDER.

Bright colours like pumpkin, hot pink, candy apple red and emerald green and up-beat combinations of them all gave an overall feel-good, summery tone to the collections. The week's standout examples were Raf Simons' statement skirts paired with white t-shirts at Jil Sander, Max Mara's blazing hot separates (the trousers had slits up the leg) and Emporio Armani's retro, flared cocktail dresses.

3 STRIPES AND GRAPHICS AT PRADA AND VERSACE

Bold, Baroque prints, lean silhouettes and Josephine Baker references (a Paul Colin illustration, a banana skirt) made Prada an early standout in the graphics department. Meanwhile, Versace gave a fresh interpretation of the stripes trend by distorting them.

The ghost of Yves Saint Laurent

KENYA HUNT
STYLE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LONDON

▶ Two outfits from Limi Feu's show during Paris Fashion Week.

If the fashion weeks in New York, London and Milan made anything clear, it's that fashion is having a serious 1970s obsession. Technically, that obsession began in France.

Why? Because the runway season has been filled with references to Monsieur Yves Saint Laurent.

Whether it be his billowing dresses, peasant blouses or bold colour palette, his influence stretches far and wide this season.

Whether or not the Paris shows continue this '70s trend remains to be seen. But we can assure you that Saint Laurent's ghost will still be in the air thanks to the new documentary about the couturier L'Amour Fou.

It features never before seen footage of the designer and explores his relationship with his on-again-off-again lover and business partner, Pierre Berge. The film will surely only deepen fashion's nostalgia for the icon and his work.

Limi Feu

The closing series of evening dresses were the highlight of this show, which was dominated by stark black and white dresses and separates.

What made these dresses stand out was the absence of all of the froufrou one expects from evening wear.

The dresses, such as a simple pleated black gown with a plunging V-neckline, were simple and yet displayed Feu's flair for draping, volume and complex construction.

These are all skills that she shares with her father, Yohji Yamamoto.

Dries van Noten

Last season's parade of army green, violet and leopard prints was replaced by a strong, precisely constructed collection of separates in relaxed, oversized proportions and soft pastels and floral prints.

Always a favourite among fashion's top editors, this collection had plenty to choose from for those women who want to look modern but don't want to be a slave to trends.

The collection was an intelligent interpretation of spring dressing.

Top designer goes eco-friendly

Decorator Candice Olson says more and more people are concerned with earth-friendly products

DECOR MOMENT

KARL LOHNES
HOME@METRONEWS.CA

This week I give up my decorating spotlight to bring you some insider thoughts about decorating with Canadian interior designer Candice Olson.

She's got the No. 1 decorating show on HGTV (U.S.) and her show Divine Design can be seen on the W Network in Canada every Thursday night.

Candice is as friendly and charming in real life as she is on television; and she's got a wicked sense of humour.

I caught up with her last month and was surprised to learn that her rooms are not only well decorated, but often incorporate many eco-friendly and hand-made products.

What design style are you best known for?
My look tends to be contemporary, parred down clean lines with a huge factor of comfort. I don't like cold, sterile rooms so I like to use natural materials like natural fabrics and cork.

How does that differ from personal decorating style at home?
I actually like modern style, but love to incorporate the element of hand-made into a room. Handmade items bring a sense of personal style and offer a look that no one else will have.

One of a kind items like sculptures, carved wooden bowls, baskets and artwork help to define a homeowner's decor personality.

What are your clients requesting these days?
My clients are becoming increasingly more concious about earth-friendly products and are very savvy to incorporate them into a room's design.

Although I have suggested products like cork flooring for many years, its popularity and acceptance has been increasing ten-fold over the past while. Earth-friendly decorating products don't have to look hippy-granola; can you imagine cork flooring made to look like modern wooden planks or concrete tiles?

This type of stuff is really exciting to me.

LUNCH RUSH

JOAN CHANG
FOOD@METRONEWS.CA

SFU's school of contemporary arts at Woodwards has just kicked off its first year of school.

And just in time, The Charles Bar has opened to soak up thirsty students.

For a building that's been sold as an experimental mix of social housing, artistic space and residences, The Charles Bar is surprisingly conformist.

The decor is in tune with upscale chain sports bars and in that sense, they're unique to the neighbourhood.

Tapas rules apply: order plenty and share. Flatbread with beef shortrib ($12) tastes almost as good as it smells. The baking time has dried out the ribs.

There's a large fries selection, but the topping on the truffle gremolata fries ($7) is dry and grainy. You either get too much of the very salty gremolata or none at all.

Best part of the meal? Pulled pork tacos ($9) with corn tortillas. They're flavourful and moist with lightly pickled cucumbers and onions on top.

The menu is at least somewhat inventive if not always successful. Time will tell how the locals take to the latest addition.

Sports in brief

Three-time Tour de France winner Alberto Contador tested positive for a banned steroid during this year's race, according to a statement released by his spokesman yesterday.

Jacinto Vidarte, Contador's publicist, said the substance, identified as clenbuterol, was found in a test taken on July 21. Contador has blamed food contamination as the only possible explanation.

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 Why are you so upset that you made a mistake? Everyone gets it wrong occasionally, even an Aries, so stop beating yourself up about it and move on to the next thing.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 You may not see eye-to-eye with someone you work or do business with but what happens over the next 24 hours will help you understand why they think and act in certain ways..

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 Because your opinions are so respected others seek you out to learn why certain things are taking place. But you cannot possibly know it all and what happens today may baffle you completely.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 Stick with what you know and trust. If you chop and change today you will most likely commit the kind of silly mistake you quite rightly laugh at others for making.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 You will feel a powerful urge to let your instincts guide you, even though the direction they are pointing you in may be one you know next to nothing about. Don't fight it – go with it.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 You have a duty to tell it like you see it, even though you know that not everyone will appreciate your candor. Who is that duty to? It is to yourself and it is to the universe as a whole.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Attitude is everything now. If you are positive in your thinking and allow only loving and constructive emotions a place in your heart there really is nothing you cannot accomplish.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 You have made more than enough concessions and cannot afford to indulge a friend's unreasonable demands any longer.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Something that once was such a struggle is at last coming easy and you are right to make the most of the situation. But you must also take the time and make the effort to find out why it is going so well.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 To make the most of your talents you need to bring other people in on your plans and let them help you find new ways to your goals. Not even a Capricorn can do it all on their own.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Do you believe in yourself? Not just a little bit but totally, absolutely, irrevocably? Most likely you still have a few doubts but you can overcome them today.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 Some of the things that have been going on in your neighborhood have been strange to say the least, but none of it concerns you directly so don't get involved.
